DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Friedman et al (U.S. Pub 2004/0205138 A1).

3. As per claims 1, 10 & 11 Friedman disclosed a method of transmitting an electronic message on electronic letterhead comprising the steps of: generating electronic letterhead from computer-generated artwork; receiving a request to transmit an electronic message from a subscriber to a recipient (paragraphs 14 & 129), said subscriber and recipient each having an associated network addressable electronic message client; combining said electronic letterhead and said electronic message to form a composite electronic message; and, forwarding said composite electronic message to said recipient (paragraphs 15 & 130).

4. As per claims 2 & 12 Friedman disclosed the method of claim 1, further comprising the steps of: configuring said subscriber's network addressable electronic message client to transmit electronic messages to an application server; receiving in said application server said electronic message from said subscriber's associated network addressable electronic message client; and, performing said combining and forwarding steps in said application server (paragraphs 62 & 63).

5. As per claims 3 & 13 Friedman disclosed the method of claim 1, further comprising the step of: receiving said computer-generated artwork from said subscriber (paragraph 15).

6. As per claims 4 & 14 Friedman disclosed the method of claim 1, further comprising the step of: configuring said subscriber's network addressable electronic message client to perform said combining and forwarding steps (paragraph 16).

7. As per claims 5 & 15 Friedman disclosed the method of claim 4, wherein said configuring step comprises the steps of: installing a plug-in to said subscriber's network addressable electronic message client, said plug in performing said combining and forwarding steps (paragraphs 16 & 144).

8. As per claims 6 & 16 Friedman disclosed the method of claim 4, wherein said configuring step comprises the step of: substituting default stationery in said subscriber's network addressable electronic message client with said electronic letterhead (paragraphs 14 & 15).

9. As per claims 7 & 17 Friedman disclosed the method of claim 1, further comprising the step of: associating a hyperlink with said electronic letterhead, said hyperlink comprising a network address at which marketing information can be accessed by activating said hyperlink (paragraph 124 & 134).

10. As per claims 8 & 18 Friedman disclosed the method of claim 1, further comprising the steps of: providing access over a computer communications network to said electronic letterhead; accepting user-modifications to said electronic letterhead; and, substituting said user-modified electronic letterhead for said generated electronic letterhead (paragraphs 144 & 145).

11. As per claims 9 & 19 Friedman disclosed the method of claim 1, further comprising the step of: registering said subscriber, said registration comprising collecting demographic data for said subscriber (paragraphs 134 & 135).
